

Hana Snablova

I take on a truly transdisciplinary role. I am an enthusiastic and curious creative systemic thinker with strong presentation and communication skills, and a can-do attitude. I aim to integrate my specialisation in marketing, branding, business and management with my passion for design and technology to deliver innovative CX that are game changers - bringing new levels of user and business value. My ambition is to make a difference on a strategic level as efficiency has been improved. At UCL, my goal is to challenge the educational service experience for our students to help them realise their full potential.
